BOGUS CHECK MAN SWINDLES MERCHANTS

Two Willow Grove Storekeepers Lost Over $60—Man Had Worked in Neighborhood—Forged Signature of P. P. Gheen.

A bogus check man swindled two or more Willow Grove merchants early in the week. He tried his game upon several, but so far as known there were only two losers.

Frank Schimpf is out $35.75, and the manager of the Bell store cashed a check for $25.50, and found to his sorrow that it was not good.

The man gave the name of George Beal, had been working for a short time for P. P. Gheen, on the Frazier farm. He was of good address and intelligent, and made friends during his short stay in the Grove. He stayed long enough in Mr. Gheen's employ to learn that he kept his account in Jenkintown Trust Company, then securing several Trust Company blanks, he proceeded to fill them out and sign Mr. Gheen's name at the bottom. With these checks he managed to get away with over $60 as above related.

In approaching store keepers he claimed to be an employe of Mr. Gheen and said the checks had been given to him for wages, after securing the money, he disappeared and has not been heard from since.

The local police were notified, but the swindler had a good long start, before it was learned that the checks were bogus. A very good description however, of the man has been furnished.

Many persons from the borough attended the firemen's parade at Hatboro on Saturday last. Some were looking for the "Ivyland fire apparatus," but I guess they missed it.

Ivyland Improvement Association had better get awake. The streets and roads are getting muddy for the winter months, and automobiles must be housed for a long time, without we get our macadamized streets, which we thought would be done by this time. A meeting was held last winter and by this time we were to have macadamized streets, electric lights, all kinds of train service, trolleys and a lot of everything needed. Ivyland is the same at this writing as it has been for years, except the word borough and cement walks.

AUTOMOBILE UPSET WOMAN DEAD

When the Motor Car of Mrs. Margaret Smith Turned Over Mrs. Austin Was Fatally Crushed—Car Skidded Upon Wet Road Near Fort Washington.

Caught beneath the body of a heavy touring car, in which she was riding, when the machine overturned near Fort Washington, this county, on Sunday, Mrs. Margaret Austin, of Delanco, N. J., wife of Edward Austin, a Philadelphia clothing salesman, sustained injuries which resulted in her death last Wednesday night at the home of Dr. William H. Morrison, No. 8021 Frankford avenue.

The woman's death followed an operation. Her sister, Mrs. George W. Lodge, of No. 9537 Banes street, Bustleton, ordered her removal to the physician's home after the accident, and Dr. Morrison stated that there was a slight chance of saving her life through an operation. The full weight of the machine, which was owned by Mrs. Margaret Smith, of near Fort Washington, had rested on the woman's abdomen and injured her internally.

The operation was performed Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Austin survived only a few hours. She will be buried from her sister's home on Saturday.

Speaking of the auto accident, Mrs. Lodge said that the sister had gone to Fort Washington to visit Mrs. Smith. The latter met Mrs. Austin at the railroad station, starting in the auto to her home. Skidding on the wet road, the machine overturned and Mrs. Austin was pinned beneath it. Other members of the party escaped injury.

PAYNE AGAIN HELD FOR AUTO KILLING

An echo of the midnight joy ride which resulted in the death of Martin S. Smith, aged 28 years, of Abington, an employe of the Elkins "Folly Farms," when he was run down by the automobile of George R. Payne, son of the Capitol contractor, of No. 36 South Fifty-first street, Philadelphia, was heard in the Philadelphia Coroner's office on Thursday, when Payne was held without bail to await the action of the Grand Jury, charged with causing Smith's death.

Smith died in the Jewish Hospital on August 17, as the result of injuries sustained when Payne's machine, running at an estimated rate of 35 miles an hour, ran him down and hurled him twenty feet through the air and into a fence. Assistant District Attorney Walsh made an attack on the police of Abington, saying that the Montgomery county police cannot "fix" a case which comes under the jurisdiction of Philadelphia county officials.

This statement followed a motion by Ruby R. Vale, an attorney representing Payne, that the case be dismissed on the grounds that Philadelphia had no jurisdiction in the matter, the accident having occurred in Abington, Montgomery county. Mr. Vale also called attention to the fact that the Montgomery County Grand Jury had twice ignored the bill against Payne, offering this as another reason why the case should be dismissed.

Attorney Walsh, in his answer, declared that as the death occurred in the Jewish Hospital, in Philadelphia county, the officials of that county had jurisdiction in the matter. He characterized the testimony of Mounted Policeman Russell, of Montgomery county, as the "most wonderful piece of testimony" he had ever heard. Mr. Walsh pointed out that although the policeman declared the lights on the automobile were all burning and although the scene of the accident is directly within the glare of a street electric light, Russell testified that he did not see Smith struck by the speeding automobile, did not see him hurtled through the air and did not even see the machine until it had passed and he saw Smith lying in the gutter, where he rolled after striking the fence.

Mr. Walsh said that under the circumstances he would ask the Coroner to instruct the jury to hold Payne without bail to await the action of the Montgomery County Grand Jury. Payne was, therefore held without bail. In the meantime, Mr. Walsh said, he will consult with District Attorney Rotan, who will confer with the District Attorney of Montgomery county and see that the Grand Jury of that county takes the matter up as soon as possible.

The accident which caused Smith's death attracted a great deal of attention because of the fact that the scene is well lighted. The police, at the time said that Russell, the mounted policeman, and Smith, were together near the Folly Farms, Russell being on his horse. Without warning an automobile appeared. At the spot where Smith stood the road curves, although the curve is wide and autoists usually have little difficulty in making it.

FRIENDS FIRST DAY SCHOOL WORKERS

Representatives of Six Schools in Abington Union Held Autumn Meeting at Horsham—Many Subjects Discussed—Appointments Made.

The autumn meeting of the Abington First-day School union was held at Horsham Meeting House Seventh-day 10 month, 14th.

Anna Thompson gave a reading from Scripture.

It was a very large and live meeting.

Roll-call showed representatives present from the six schools comprising the union—Abington, Gwynedd, Horsham, Norristown, Plymouth Meeting and Quakertown.

Essay reports were read from the various schools, showing faithful work accomplished. From Gwynedd came the suggestion that more frequent changes be made in the working force, thus giving more persons the responsibility. Emphasis was placed, however, on learning the difference between a brake on the wheel of progress and an obstacle to the progress itself. It was in the report from the Horsham school that the real subject for morning discussion arose. Invitations had been received by that school to join the County Sunday School Association, and the superintendent desired the opinion of the union concerning a suitable reply. While there were some different opinions expressed, the view of Jane P. Rushmore, of Philadelphia, general secretary of First-day school work, seemed to voice that of the majority.

She said the Friends approach the religious training of the children from a different viewpoint from that of the churches, who do it with a view of gaining converts to the church, while Friends train them religiously to build life and character of future men and women. She mentioned some difficulties which beset Friends in such associations, for they believe in prayer only when the spirit of prayer is upon them and not when prayer is on the program.

Other speakers deplored the seclusion this attitude would seem to indicate among Friends, and felt the broadening of lines would be beneficial.

Reports were also read from Abington and Plymouth meetings, Quakertown and Norristown schools. Plymouth Meeting reported a number of new members through the First-day school. Mary Thompson gave a recitation on "Cheerfulness," and twelve little children from Horsham school gave a class exercise.

Florence J. Williams gave an address of welcome in the afternoon, to which Emma B. Conrow, of Norristown responded.

Reports were given from both the business and visiting committees of the union. Two delegates were present from Concord Union, and Jane K. Jarrett, Elizabeth Buchman and Isaac Parry were named to attend Concord Union one week later.

A class exercise was given by Plymouth school, "Song of the Syrian Guest," and one from Norristown school on "Purity." Hannah Hollingsworth, of Horsham, and Mamie Fowles of Quakertown, gave recitations, and Annie M. Jarrett and Edith Livesey gave readings.

Delegates were appointed to attend the First-day School Association meeting to be held at Race street, Philadelphia, as follows: Priscilla Heacock, Sarah Fell, Laura Puolke, Edith Livesey, Emma Kinsey, Alice J. Wood, John Kinsey, Emma B. Conrow, Julia Stout, Lydia P. Webster, Elizabeth Jones, Anna Thompson, Eleanor Foulke, Annie Bail Roberts, Frank Ball, Charles Comly and Hannah Hallowell.

The rest of the time was given to discussion of the question, "How shall members of the First-day School be induced to realize the necessity of individual service?" The first paper on the subject was presented by Priscilla Heacock, of Jenkintown, who dealt with it from the attitude of a teacher and her responsibilities to develop this necessity and said: "To induce others to use it, the teacher must herself be what she would inspire in the pupils." Jane Rushmore emphasized the need of developing responsibility in little children.

Another paper was read by Elizabeth Jones, of Conshohocken, and one by Gwendolyn Evans, of Gwynedd, prepared by William Jenkins, in which the writer said to ask the question is a sign of weakness. Individual responsibility is an important part of Friends' principles and "if our principles are worth while, let us live up to them, making ourselves worthy of a glorious past."

Among those who took part in the various discussions were: Susan H. Jarrett, Elizabeth Ely, Elizabeth H. Comly, Charles Comly, Isaac Parry, Margaret Dager, Daniel Batchellor, Frank Ball, Elizabeth Buckman, James Q. Atkinson and Howard Kinsey.

Hidden Treasure of Red Rock

How Wealth Came to a Moki King's Descendant

By ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

"Look here, Laura; if that medicine man fakir fellow isn't Carlos Noran of our senior class I'm a liar; that's all."

"The idea!" after the manner of women, exclaimed pretty golden blond Laura Degart. "Why, Buddie, Mr. Noran is the most dignified member of our class."

Miss Degart looked nervous. She poked the ground with her parasol.

"So he is. But I'll bet you a dollar that's Noran and nobody else. He comes from somewhere in New Mexico. And from the looks of him he might be Spanish, Mexican, Navajo, greaser or anything else."

"YOU SEE YOU WERE DEAD WRONG," SAID LAURA.

"Oh, Buddie (warmly), I'm sure Mr. Noran is as well born and bred as any man in the college."

"No doubt. But all the same it's not impossible he might be doing these Moki stunts for money at the summer resorts. If this fellow is not Noran it's his twin brother."

"Come along, Laura; the fellow's finished. I'm going out right after him. I'll call him and see if he doesn't jump. Hello, Noran, old chap! I say, how are you?"

Not a sign of recognition, not a start or a stare. Naonoro gave his assistant some directions in an Indian language. Then he opened a quaintly woven basket and offered the brother and sister some magic medicine beans warranted to keep off malaria, rheumatism and fevers. They bought some and passed on.

"You see you were dead wrong," said Laura.

"I'm not altogether sure of that, sis, but he's a good looking humbug anyway and clean and got up to kill, with that red and blue and yellow blanket around him, and the red paint on his cheeks."

Carlos Noran, senior class, state university, Southington, who bore such a queer resemblance to a Moki medicine show fakir, was the most respectable of students. He never cut chapel, never missed a session or a Y. W. C. A. reception, never dodged a lecture on the development of social ethics. He was one of the best scholars in the institution. He was a crack baseball player and a noted long distance swimmer. In figure he was erect and nobly formed; though athletic, not lean and bony, but with rounded muscles. He had thick, straight hair that was purple in its blackness. His face never changed its color, a pure ivory white, hardly ever changed its expression.

Noran dressed with absolute correctness. The matron of the co-eds declared he had the best manners among the college youths. He had not only manners, mother, and it was superb enough for a king or a Hindu swami at the very least. He was generous with money and seemed to have plenty of it. Socially he was welcomed among the best citizens' families at Southington. The Degarts were his friends, though they wondered what his family was.

When Laura and Harold Degart left the medicine man he entered the tent in which he lived, threw off the bright figured blanket and sat down to write.

Now Naonoro wrote:

"Thoughts and purposes are always fixed in my mind better when I write them down. I will find the lost treasure of the Mokis and win a girl for my wife. That is the purpose of me, Naonoro, Moki medicine man. I know the girl is for me. I knew it when I first touched her hand three years ago. She is the lily of the white people.

"I am going to write down all I know of the story of my life. That will make my memory clearer and help to concentrate my thought.

"The first place I remember was an Indian reservation school. I don't know how I got into it. They told me my mother brought me to the agency when I was about two years old. They found us lying, my mother and myself, at the door of the agent's house one morning. Mother was dead—if she really was my mother. I was asleep. I could say only one word—'Naonoro'—so they called me that for my name. That is all I know about myself.

"I stayed in the reservation school and was a good boy till I was twelve. Then the bureau of education sent me east to an Indian school. It intended to make a civilized Indian of me. I attended that school two years. I was a good boy again and learned my lessons. But all this time I was thinking, thinking. The white teachers looked down on us Indian boys. They felt themselves far above us. The people of the village where the school was looked down on us too. I looked at myself in the still water of the river. I shook my fist and imagined I was shaking it in the face of the teacher I disliked most. 'I'm whiter than you are,' I said to him in my imagination. 'I'll run away from this school.'

"A Moki boy and I ran away together. We went to his people, and I lived among his tribe. An old Moki woman with a face like the wrinkled bark of a brown tree adopted me for her grandson. I learned to do dances and reel off incantations with the best of them. It was not a bad life. I would have been happy, but I had learned white men's ways. I felt half white, half Moki. Sometimes the white man was uppermost, sometimes the Moki. In one of my white fits I said: 'I won't be an Indian. I'll turn white. The white man's learning, the white man's money and power—they shall be mine.'

"I was seventeen then—reservation waif, Moki blanket Indian boy. I am twenty-four now—college senior, member of the most extravagant Greek letter society and—yes, maybe the fairest girl—but never mind. What I have done I have done all myself. How? Would these proud white people accept me as one of them if they knew?

"When I was seventeen and had made up my mind to turn white a showman came among our tribe looking for presentable Indians to go in a circus and perform the tribal dances and the juggling feats of our medicine men. I went. I made a circus of myself. I became a professional snake charmer and Moki medicine man. I got money enough that season to go to a white boys' school as a white boy I have been doing the same thing summer vacations ever since, and nobody ever appeared to recognize me till to day. I wonder if I deceived the Degarts.

"The summer I turned white the old woman who had adopted me made me give her my solemn promise that I would come back to her after I left school. She told me it was of the utmost importance; that she knew how to give me power and the hidden treasure of the Snake Mokis. I am going next summer. Old Teresa never told me a lie.

"Now I have written my story down It is fixed in my mind. My purpose is fixed in my mind. Naonoro, the Moki medicine man, will get riches. He will marry the lily of the white people, and she will not be ashamed of him."

* * * * * * *

"I suppose our class will never all see one another again after this commencement night, Mr. Noran," said Laura Degart a year later.

Noran looked at her.

"Miss Degart, you will see me again if you wish to. I am going away to make my fortune. Before I go I would like to hear you say, 'Carl Noran, come back to me.'"

"Carl Noran, when you think you have made your fortune come back."

"Say come back to me!"

"Well, then—come back—to me."

* * * * * * *

In the sands, among the cactus and sagebrush, in the shadow of a cliff stand two an aged blanket squaw with a face like the wrinkled bark of a brown tree and a man in white people's dress, a black haired young man, proud with the splendid pride of youth and power.

"Naonoro not red Indian," said the old squaw. "Naonoro half white, half brown Moki. Naonoro sure old Teresa's grandson. Mother white man's girl. She run away from father with Ramono, Teresa's son. She took him away from Teresa. Teresa very sorrowful, but she love Naonoro, Ramono's little child. By 'm by white wife tired of Moki ways. She hate Ramono. Ramono away, take baby with her. Ramono want son. He look every place for him, little Noro with the big black eyes. Ramono never find son. Ramono die. Teresa have no child. But Teresa know white woman would run away by 'm by. She put mark on Noro's arm one day; mark never come off. It is mark of Teresa's own people, the Snake Mokis. Has Teresa's adopted grandson a serpent, a very little serpent, on right arm?"

Naonoro jumped. "It's there, sure enough," said he. "I've often wondered"—

"It is the totem of Teresa's own family. Her fathers were kings before white men came. They much rich. Teresa's people. They had gold. They had mines of blue stones, many, like pebbles on river shore. White man calls them turquoise"—

"Oh, mother, do you know where these mines are?"

"The young should be silent while the old speak. Teresa know, but Teresa will never tell. If Teresa tell white man find out. White man shall never find mines of Teresa's fathers. Pretty soon Teresa die; then nobody know."

"But, mother"—

"Let the young be silent while the old speak. When white man come with the guns he kill Mokis like sheep. He take away their blankets and their gold and all the blue stones he can find. Teresa's people hide treasures. White man whip old king, the last of Teresa's long ago fathers, to make him tell where treasure is. They whip till king die, but he not tell. His daughter know; old king tell her. She tell her daughter; that daughter tell her daughter. Snake Moki squaws have secrets Snake Moki man not know. Old king's daughter tell her daughter when of Snake Moki family come son who is strong and wise, not run away from face of white man, not let white man make drunk, cheat him and find out where Snake treasure is. Then mother of Snake Moki wise young man tell her son. Son will be rich and know school learning and be powerful like white man. White man cannot tramp on him. He will help Mokis.

"Naonoro strong. He not drink whisky; white man not cheat him. Naonoro much wise. Teresa tell her own grandson where Snake Moki treasure is. Here at this rock starts trail, where mark is cut in rock."

As if repeating an incantation she chanted:

"Twelve steps toward north star, mark last step. Go back to rock. Sixteen steps toward rising sun. Where rising sun trail ends turn face toward where north star trail ends. Ten steps in straight line. Mark place. Go to end of north star trail, turn face to end of rising sun trail. Ten steps to meet end of other ten steps. Drive stake down. Dig far down to big red rock. Under red rock big water jar full of gold, blue stones, red stones, many like stars in sky. Make Naonoro much rich."

Naonoro leaped forward.

A leathery hand shot out and held him back.

"Not so, not in day. Come night, then dig. Teresa come too."

In the moonlight, with no sound to break the brooding stillness, the deed was done. A power that was strange and new to him was in the arms of Naonoro. He felt it in the air, in a million little waves, when, step by step carefully, with eyes upon the ground he measured twelve steps toward the north star, sixteen steps toward the rising sun, ten steps from each stopping point till the trails met in the center. Then a light dawned in his mind.

"Why, of course, the hypotenuse of a right angled triangle. The old Snake Moki king, my ancestor, must have understood geometry."

Treasure, treasure—burning rubies enough to pay a railroad debt; gorgeous turquoises whose exquisite blue gleamed even in the moonlight; thousands of Spanish doubloons, their shine scarcely tarnished in the dry air, though more than three centuries had changed the face of earth and its nations; rings and necklaces of beaten gold; bracelets that had adorned pale brown arms, round and royal, turned to dust—who knows how many centuries agone?

At Southington.

"You told me I might come back to you when I had made my fortune. It is made. Am I welcome?"

"None could be more welcome," she answered gently.

"I love you, Laura. You know it No man will ever love you again as much as I do. I have always loved you. But first I must tell you. I have my fortune, but it is none of my making. My grandmother, a very old Moki squaw, showed me where it had been hidden centuries ago by her ancestor, a Snake Moki. It is rightfully mine, my inheritance. Laura, your white people would call me a half breed Indian. My mother was a white woman I am the Moki medicine man you and your brother saw at that show two years ago. I earned money that way."

"LET THE YOUNG BE SILENT."

She laid her hand in his, the white hand in the brown one. She looked up at him as a woman looks at the man she loves.

"I know it, dear. I have known it all the time."

The world wonders why Mr. and Mrs. Noran live in the southwest when they are so well fitted to adorn civilization and civilization is so well fitted to adorn them. There are those, too, who wonder why they take such tender care of an aged Moki woman with a face like the wrinkled bark of a brown tree. She is said to be Mr. Noran's old nurse. But when this aged Moki squaw dies there will not be left among the living one soul who knows the mystery of the great lost Snake turquoise mine.

KURIOS FROM KORRESPONDENTS

Q.—Which costs more to keep, Light Brahmas or White Leghorn hens? A.—Light Brahmas cost about double.

Q.—Is skimmilk of much value in feeding chicks? A.—Yes. Of two broods those fed skimmilk with the rations were twice as heavy. It is best fed in the form of cottage cheese, but if fed in liquid form should be served so chicks are not smeared with it, as that is detrimental, and the milk should be allowed to sour, as the lactic acid assists the organs to throw off the waste matter of the system.

Q.—Will you please tell me how to administer turpentine to old fowls for tapeworm? I smothered several by using a spoon. A.—Attach an ordinary atomizer rubber tube to a funnel and pass it down into the crop. Mix a tablespoonful of epsom salts with water, pour down funnel, and after thirty minutes administer two teaspoonfuls of turpentine by the same rubber route.

Q.—I have so many chicks with sore eyes and cannot find the cause. I am feeding cracked corn, wheat, beef scrap and milk. My chicks have no cold or lice, and I should be pleased to have your opinion. A.—The trouble comes from the milk. Your chicks get it on their eyelids and into their eyes. It ferments and makes them sore. Make it into cottage cheese and the trouble will cease.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

Breeding the big Light Brahma and the Buff Cochin seems to delight the professional man who is in poultry mostly for pleasure. An hour out of the office "fooling around" in the air and sunshine with a fine flock of such beautiful birds cuts the monotony of the daily grind, brings new thoughts and helps to preserve that light heartedness so necessary to health and life.

Some one estimates that a chicken is half appetite. If so, how about the scoop shovel quacks? When they eat their supper is accessory to the act, from scoop shovel to terminal. There is no stop at way stations. They are all appetite, and some more.

In the towns of Weymouth, Hingham, Rockland and Braintree, Mass., is the center of the south shore roaster industry. This is the great district in the country for capons. Light Brahmas or this breed crossed with Dottes or Rocks being used for the purpose.

The London Evening Standard tells of the recent slaughter of thousands of wild pigeons by farmers on the Isle of Wight, where the enormous flocks have done great damage. And think of it! the advertisement of $1,000 for the discovery of a pair of nesting wild pigeons in the United States brought no response.

Farmers in New England who shipped a lot of fine turkeys in bulk to a New York commission dealer were dissatisfied with the check returned and on a second shipment tucked a letter inside the turkeys asking those who purchased to state what they paid for them. The dealer recorded the usual knock at the quality of the birds and said 14 cents was all he could get and inclosed check with expenses deducted. Then letters from the purchasers arrived, showing they had paid from 35 to 40 cents a pound. Yes, the liars didn't all die when Ananias kicked the bucket.

When the bottom dropped out of the market and the butter trust lost $1,400,000 and storage was stuck with stacks of eggs and tons of dressed poultry they got cold feet when the time came for storing away the spring and summer product. What means this increase of poultry interest, poultry education, poultry houses and private docks? It means that the private citizen will help the farmer and professional poultryman to give the trust a second solar plexus next winter.

The Towanda (Pa.) Electric Light company prondly displayed a flock of chicks in the office window that were hatched by an incubator run by current from their plant. Their boast that these are the first chicks hatched by electricity in the state is a mistake, and they are not the first hatched by that method in the country either, for the first electric chicks were hatched at Buffalo over five years ago, and the wonderful stunt was performed by electricity generated by the great cataract Niagara.

HORSHAM

A BOTCHED BRIDGE.

The new county bridge over Park creek is causing much comment among Horsham taxpayers. Through false economy the County Commissioners contracted for a one-arch span to do the work of a three-arch bridge, as was petitioned for. The one big arch is certainly high enough if the water can ever be backed up sufficiently without causing immense damage to surrounding property. It is said also that the measurements for the wing walls were defective and changes will be necessary before the bridge can be considered a success. The additional walls and the extra fill will make the bridge cost the county as much as would a decent size bridge, if erected. The bad judgment exhibited here is expensive for the taxpayers, who must pay for public work.

The public sale of cows at Horsham hotel on Saturday last by Gimberling, was a success, in spite of the many attractions elsewhere. Seventeen cows were sold at an average of over $60 per head. One cow brought over $100.

The masons started work Monday building the foundations for the new office at Fort Side inn, which will be placed at the eastern end of the sheds. These sheds have been enclosed with sliding doors, will be weather stripped inside, and the addition will be used as a lounging room for chauffeurs and also as a heating plant for the garage.

KILE WAS PEPPERED.

Hamilton Kile, at one time foreman of one of the departments in the Keasbey and Mattison company's plant, Ambler, who was recently shot while stealing chickens in Plymouth township and who was removed to Charity hospital, had 108 No. 5 shot removed from his body. It is said that Kile was fortunate in tripping over a box and falling just as the shot was discharged at him, as the load would have struck him in the head instead of in the arm and back.

BUCKS TEMPERANCE WORKERS

The Fourteenth Annual Convention of the Loyal Temperance Legion at Langhorne—its Proceedings.

The fourteenth annual convention of Bucks County Loyal Temperance Legion was held at Langhorne Presbyterian church, October 14, 1911. An ideal day, enthusiastic delegations from ten locals, a program full of interest and the hearty welcome from Langhorne legioners worked together to make the convention a grand success.

Bucks L. T. L. works along the following lines: Flower Mission and Press, in both of which it stands among the best counties in Pennsylvania, Sabbath Observance, Medal Contests, and Mercy.

The address of the County President, Leon B. Sickles, urged greater accuracy in reports. He said a large percentage of work done was never correctly credited through carelessness of local leaders. Mrs. M. E. H. McGary, County Superintendent told of the recent action of the State W. C. T. U. at Warren, Pa., when they united the Y's and the Senior L. T. L's under one head, Young People's Branch with dues of 50 cents.

"The Greatest Hindrance to the Temperance Reform" was answered by several who gave many reasons why the work was not done, not the least important among them being the denial of the right of the ballot to women. Everywhere the saloon spends money to defeat woman suffrage campaigns. As in Maine, the women must only exhort and pray while others decide the liquor laws for them. Once more however, it has been shown that the prayers of the righteous availeth much for Maine is still to be dry.

Six local superintendents gave "Memories" of their early temperance work and stated what lines they thought best to pursue in the future.

The merit of the prize system in games and medal contests, etc., was earnestly discussed. The general opinion was that the card club where each member helps provide the prize is to be classed with the gambling institutions. Medal contests are educational. Each reciter depends not on chance but on individual power. To win in game or oratory should be enough honor without any material reward was the idea advanced by Superintendent, Mrs. Maud Rice Stuckert.

The evening session was very largely attended by people not closely associated with the L. T. L. work. It is hoped that many of these went home with the determination to lend a hand to the L. T. L. which, as J. George Frederick, the State President said in his address on "Those Fit," has as its platform, character. Mr. Frederick said L. T. L. training helped greatly in fitting young people to fill well life's positions.

Miss Margaret Davis, of Richboro, and Isaac Wright contested for the honor of being sent to Pittsburg next June as Bucks' representative in the State Oratorical. Miss Davis' beautiful theme "My Brother's Keeper" was accorded first place.

Vocal solos and a quintette and a well rendered piano duet charmed the ear of the music lover.

The Rally cry contest especially pleased the younger generation. Fallsington, Dolington and Newtown legions entered. All the yells were good but the following composed by Newtown by the victor and will be adopted throughout the county.

Hobble, gobble, razzle dazzle, sist
Down with whiskey, beer and rye
Bucks will hold its banner high.
Victory.
Bucks! Bucks! Bucks.

The cantata, A Half Hour With Mother Goose" given by eighteen of Newtown legioners was heartily applauded. The quaint costumes the happy choruses, the pretty tableaux were all pleasing and be it said to the children's credit throughout the whole cantata there was not a single mistake.

Shortly after 9.30 p. m the convention adjourned amid words of approval on every side.

IVYLAND NEEDLE WORKERS

Over 1500 Garments Distributed Among Poor—The Annual Meeting.

Ivyland branch of the Needlework Guild of America held its annual meeting in the public hall in that place on October 12. The speaker of the day was Miss Emily Wilbur, superintendent of the Friends' Neighborhood School, Philadelphia.

The garments that had been contributed to the Guild numbered 1540 pieces, of which 106 were made and handed in by the class of "Willing Helpers," of which Miss Jean W. Davis is director. Garments were on exhibition, and were later distributed among the neighborhood poor, to the Home for the Aged and Infirm Deaf, at Doylestown; Lucy Burd Industrial School, Bedminster township; Christ's Home for Homeless and Destitute Children at Whitemarsh; 49th Street Day Nursery, Philadelphia; The Home of Industry, at 714 Catherine street, Philadelphia; Visiting Nurses' Society, Philadelphia; Friendly Neighborhood Guild, Philadelphia; Children's Sea Shore Home, at Cape May, and the Samaritan Hospital, Philadelphia.

The officers of the branch are Mrs. Benjamin F. Horner, president; Mrs. Samuel C. Finney, vice president; Mrs. Samuel McIlhatten, second vice president; Mrs. Watson T. Davis, secretary, and Mrs. Harvey B. Scott, treasurer.

20 YEARS FOR KILLING WOMAN

Judge Weand, in Norristown, Sentences Former Hospital Attendant.

Charles P. Wayne, an attendant at the Norristown Hospital for the Insane, was sentenced to from five to 20 years in the Eastern Penitentiary at Norristown last Saturday by Judge Weand for the murder of Mrs. Emma J. Steiner, a widow, with whom he boarded and who wanted him to marry her.

He pleaded guilty of murder in the second degree. The Court told Wayne that he should have married the woman and not killed her. Wayne shot Mrs. Steiner to death in her bedroom after she had begged him repeatedly to marry her and he refused. He then went to Philadelphia, where he was subsequently arrested.

GRAPEFRUIT GREENERY.

Effective greenery for the dining room table may be made by planting the seeds of grapefruit. Sow them thickly, and in two weeks, if the earth is good and has been kept moist in a warm place, the little shoots appear. Two weeks more and the leaves unfold, and very soon there is a mass of rich, glossy green, which is not affected by gas or furnace heat.

$5,000 FOR LOSS OF ARM.

For the loss of an arm by being run over by a Reading train at Norristown station two years ago, Ruth Smith, of Reading was awarded $5,000 by the railway company, after the case was called for trial at Norristown on Monday.

Women in Local News.

The Wrightstown W. C. T. U. held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Anna Mathews, near Forestgrove on Monday, October 9.

Mrs. Anna Fluck, aged 85 years, had her right arm broken at the wrist, Sunday night, by a fall at the home of her son, Harry Fluck, on East Ashland street, Doylestown.

The Brownsburg Branch of the Needlework Guild of America met at the Wycombe Baptist church on Tuesday, October 17, when all the garments donated were collected to be forwarded to hospitals, etc., wherever needed.

Miss Flora K. Heebner, of Worcester, a Schwenkfelder missionary to China, who after seven years of service in the foreign field, has been home on a furlough, will leave for the far East on November 7.

The will of the late Sallie S. Fassatt, 8305 Seminole avenue, Chestnut Hill, which disposes of an estate valued at $150,000 was admitted to probate on Tuesday. The paper devises $2,000 to the Women's Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and $1,000 to the American Anti-Vivisection Society. Four domestics in the household are given $50 each, and the balance of the estate is bequeathed to Theodore Fassatt, the husband, who is named as executor.

MRS. SULLIVAN'S INJURIES FATAL

Mrs. Sarah Sullivan, wife of Joseph T. Sullivan, an insurance broker of Philadelphia, whose home is at Moorestown, N. J., died last Sunday night in the Jewish Hospital from injuries received at the Widener races at Elkins Park on October 5, when a horse threw its driver and dashed into the crowd of spectators.

Mrs. Sullivan's skull was fractured by the hoofs of the animal and she also received internal injuries. This is the second death resulting from the dash of the frightened horse, Meltonere, owned by William J. Clothier. The jockey, Harold Roberts, died two days after the accident. Several other people were slightly injured.

Mrs. Sullivan was fifty-five years old. One son, Marshall Sullivan, is a resident of Elkins Park.

About the only proof a woman needs that she is in love with a man is to feel perfectly sure that she isn't.

Listen, girls. Never put off till tomorrow the man you have a chance to accept to-day.

Miss Cayenne says: "A man spends the days of his courtship in telling a girl he is unworthy of her, and devotes his married life to proving it."

TIMELY RECIPES

CUP CUSTARDS.

Beat together ¾ pound of powdered sugar and four eggs; add a quart of fresh milk and flavor with a teaspoonful of lemon essence. Butter and sugar well six small pudding moulds or custard cups. Strain the preparation into the moulds; arrange them in a long pan filled to half the height of the moulds with warm (not boiling) water; then place them in a moderate oven to steam for 40 minutes, or until firm. When cold these may be turned out and served with whipped cream.

MOCK TURTLE SOUP.

One calf's head, one pound of calf's liver, one calf's heart, one bay leaf, one carrot, one onion, twelve cloves, one turnip, bunch of pot herbs, two tablespoonfuls of butter, three quarts of cold water, four even tablespoonfuls of flour, one tablespoonful of mushroom catsup, one tablespoonful of Worcestershire sauce, two hard-boiled eggs, one lemon; salt and pepper to taste. Have the butcher unjoint the jaws and take out the brains. Now wash the head well through several cold waters. Pour boiling water through the throat and nasal passages then wash again in cold water. Now put it in the soup kettle and cover with the cold water; put it over a moderate fire. Skim at the first boil and again in fifteen minutes. Let it simmer until the meat on the head is tender, about two hours. Remove the head, take off the meat and tongue and put on the ice to cool. Put the bones back into the kettle, add the vegetables cleaned and cut into pieces, also the cloves and bay leaf. Let this simmer for two hours longer. Strain and put away over night to cool. Put the liver and heart in the ice chest with the other meat. In the morning skim all the fat from the surface. Put the butter in a large stewing pan and stir until a nice brown, then add the flour, mix well, add the soup; boil and stir five minutes; have ready the meat from the head and half the liver cut into dice, add them to the soup and boil up once; then take from the fire and add the sauces, salt, pepper, and, if you use wine, a glass of sherry. Slice the hard-boiled eggs and lemon, put them into the tureen, pour the boiling soup over and serve.

Judge Swartz at Norristown last Saturday morning sentenced Dionino Di D'Mitzio, who was convicted of voluntary manslaughter for killing his father-in-law, Domencio Divito, at a christening near Lansdale, to not more than 12 years nor less than 3 years in the Eastern Penitentiary.

DOCTORS FAILED TO HELP HER

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pound, Wis.—"I am glad to announce that I have been cured of dyspepsia and female troubles by your medicine. I had been troubled with both for fourteen years and consulted different doctors, but failed to get any relief. After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier I can say I am a well woman.

I can't find words to express my thanks for the good your medicine has done me. You may publish this if you wish."
—Mrs. HERMAN SIETH, Pound, Wis.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

Full moon 7, last quarter 14, new moon 21, first quarter 30.

IT IS SAID THAT REPUBLICAN leaders are preparing to have an extra session of the State Legislature called after the November election to pass certain laws that the bosses want.

An extra session will cost the taxpayers from $250,000 to $300,000.

OUR NORRISTOWN CORRESpondent says the Republican party ticket was agreed upon at "back parlor" conferences.

Unless we are grossly misinformed the conferences to agree upon the names to go upon the Republican county ticket were mostly held in Philadelphia saloons and hotels.

The ticket might be appropriately labelled "Tavern made."

PRESIDENT TAFT IS MAKING speeches all through the West, especially in the country of the progressives.

Dr. Wilson, of New Jersey, is scolding away and telling how he would manage things if the voters will give him a chance to occupy the Presidential chair.

There is great political unrest all through the country, and many Republicans, while admiring Mr. Taft for his honesty of purpose, believe that he cannot be re-elected.

THE TRIALS OF THOSE ACCUSed of being connected with the Coatesville lynching at West Chester, are a travesty upon justice. Every man, no matter what the evidence, is acquitted.

As long as public sentiment is unanimously in favor of the accused there is no chance of convicting them.

It is shameful for Chester county, but the fact is plain that the actions of those men who participated in the lynching, has the approval, open or tacit, of most of their fellow citizens.

POLITICS TO DATE

NORRISTOWN LETTER

Political Points From the County Seat

Norristown, Pa., October 20, 1911

The fusion campaign in Montgomery county was started in earnest, this week, and if the statements of leaders go for anything the voters are not only willing, but anxious, to listen to speakers who dwell on the drawbacks of machine politics and point out ways to get rid of it.

Assistant District Attorney Charles D. McAvoy, for District Attorney; William Markwell, for Recorder of Deeds, and ex-State Senator John A. Wentz, are "on the road" sizing up the conditions here and there and consulting with the leaders of each locality as to the best means of strengthening the fences and preparing for a general onslaught. Numerous such "pow-wows" have been held, and all who took part in them feel much encouraged. In fact, the consensus of opinion is: "There's nothing to it, so far as we can see, but a fusion sweep, next month."

Republican machinists are busy spreading the report that "everything has been fixed up between the forces of Conrad S. Sheive and J. Ambler Williams," late aspirants for the Republican nomination for District Attorney. Sheive being "it." But the circumstances do not appear to bear out their allegation by a long shot. Williams' organization (so-called, but really a body of men intent on opposing "back parlor" methods in the Republican party) is still in existence and purposes to "keep at it." Williams may give his consent to "support the organization" if he likes; but these men will not support Sheive nor Buckwalter, the latter for Recorder. Attempts to gloss over this fact in machine circles will only emphasize the situation.

At a meeting of Democratic and Keystone workers, held in Norristown, a few nights ago, the condition of the organization of both parties throughout the county was examined to the last detail. The Democracy is in better shape than it has been for years, every district, save three, is officered, while the state of the Keystone is surprising for a young party. There is no question but that complete fusion has been effected, and circumstances can not do other than draw the preponderance of the vote to the dual opposition cause.

Speeches of an optimistic character were delivered by candidates and others, and confidence was attested all around.

Republican gangsters have about given up their attempt to court belief for the story of "the anti-fusion Democrats," an element which is supposed to be ready to knife every candidate regarded as a Keystoner and thus to menace the fortunes of the dual opposition move. Democratic leaders in the fore in this campaign have taken upon themselves the task of determining just what there was in such an assertion, and the result of their canvass is such as to cause them to pooh-pooh the machine "make-believe" and dismiss it from further consideration.

The cry of the machinists, to the effect that William F. Solly will get the bulk of Keystone votes at the election, next month—that is to say, independents will vote for him on the Republican ticket—is being taken less and less seriously. To begin with, District Attorney J. B. Larzelere, Solly's opponent, had more names on his Keystone petition for the nomination than he had on his Democratic; he secured the candidacy at the primaries by a big majority over Solly, and not a day passes without his (Larzelere's) friends receiving assurances of support for him from unexpected sources—indeed, from some Republican sources.

Next week, in all probability, active speechmaking will be begun by the fusion candidates. It is proposed to hold meetings in as many centers as possible during the remainder of pre-election days and to "go at it hammer and tongs." Everybody in the party believes that "we are going to get there."

VIGILANT.

Alexander Neely, Keystone and Democratic nominee for Sheriff, reports much encouragement in his campaign over the county. He finds hundreds of Republicans of independent thought who will bolt the Johnsonized machine ticket on election day.

B. Frank Boutcher, of Abington township, candidate for the office of Recorder of Deeds, is finding much encouragement for the success of the Keystone-Democratic ticket as he goes about over the county. Prospects are looking especially good to him.

One of the co-workers of Alexander Neely, of Abington township, candidate for the office of Sheriff, on the Keystone-Democratic ticket, spoke of Mr. Neely in the most glowing terms. He said "I never saw anything like the old gentleman as a campaigner. He is making votes and friends on every side and is a tireless worker from early in the morning till late at night. It seems as if all classes naturally take to him. He seems to be just as fresh after a whole days' campaigning as when starting in the morning."

Henry Long, Jr., of Doylestown, a former Councilman and old soldier of the Civil War, is dead, aged 66 years.

There is a wood of six acres and considerable fruit. The improvements consist of a 10 ROOM STONE FARM HOUSE; an 8-ROOM TENANT HOUSE and the finest large barn for 6 horses and 15 cows; springhouse and all other necessary out-buildings, all of which can be viewed in best of condition at small expense. This is a choice farm for the mechanic, trucker, dairy man, stockman, suburbanite, or lot-promoter. All conveniences are at hand, and the people are of the best.

Wireless Whispers.

With the completion this year of fifteen new stations along the Amazon and Paraquay rivers Brazil will have the most complete wireless system of any nation.

Wireless stations are to be established at Bogota, Medellin and Cartagena, in Colombia, to connect that isolated country with the West Indies, Panama and Venezuela.

The wireless station at Santa Cruz, consisting of four towers installed in 1909, is not yet in operation, owing to certain legal difficulties, which, it is understood, have now been adjusted. It is stated that communication will be established within a few months.

Hallowe'en games concluded the evening's enjoyment. A large company was present.

The Southampton Fire Company members are pleased with the many pleasing comments on their appearance in the Hatboro parade. Both the fire company and the fife and drum corps were applauded all along the line of march. There was no other fife and drum corps in the line march that rendered as good music as our own, and in fact it was said that they were only corps playing to music, which accounted for the time they kept. The hand engine was the only one in the line of parade and pleased many of the old volunteer firemen. This Saturday night the fire company and drum corps will go to Huntingdon Valley and with the Willow Grove fire company, install the engine of the Huntingdon Valley fire company. Our company will take along their chemical engine. At the special meeting it was decided to give an entertainment on November 18th, which is to be provided by Kobb, who gave an entertainment early in the year. It was voted to reserve all earnings from this entertainment and others that might be given during the winter months, for the building fund. The dramatic association of Holmesburg, which gave a play for the fire company last year, will again appear during December or January.

A GREAT FIREMEN'S PARADE

Hatboro Entertained the Montgomery County Volunteer Firemen's Association—Fire Companies Present from Ambler, Abington, Cheltenham, Edge Hill, Fort Washington, Flourtown, Glenside, Jenkintown, Rockledge, Willow Grove, Weldon, McKinley and Southampton—Many Bands and Thousands of Spectators.

Last Saturday was Hatboro's red letter day. It entertained enthusiastically the members of the Montgomery County Volunteer Firemen's Association to the number of about 1200 and several thousand visitors, who came to town to see the spectacle.

The town was decorated with flags and bunting as never before and looked its best with streets newly cleaned and everything in order.

The parade of the volunteer fire companies with their many bands was the feature of the day. It was an astonishing exhibition, including the finest fire fighting equipment obtainable. Not many big cities can show anything better than the up-to-the-minute automobile apparatus exhibited by more than one suburban company. There was everything in line from an old hand engine to a $5000 motor truck with its complete equipment. It was the greatest firemen's parade the lower end of the county ever saw. Motor driven apparatus was shown by the Enterprise Company, of Hatboro, a new automobile chemical; Edge Hill Company, new automobile chemical and hose wagon; Pioneer Company, of Jenkintown, automobile chemical; Independent Company, of Jenkintown, new automobile ladder and hose truck, and new automobile chemical wagon.

The horse drawn equipment was first class and effective, but the motor trucks have the elements of quickness and speed, which commend them to all companies, who can command the financial backing to get them. They are very expensive.

The parade was in three divisions, and was headed by a detail of seven mounted officers from the Philadelphia department. Chief Marshall Paul Jones, had as assistants, J. M. Walmsley, W. W. Wilgus, Thomas Cromley, and F. E. Snively. The line was formed at York street, Horsham and Cemetery avenues and proceeded over the following route: York road to Byberry, to New, to Montgomery, to York road, south to Moreland, east to Depot, south to Byberry, west to York road, north to County Line, where bands were massed with men immediately following and apparatus massed in the rear, moved south on York road to Town Hall and disbanded.

The parade was about a half hour in passing a given point and bands were sufficiently numerous to make it lively. The Wissahickon Company, of Ambler, headed by a band—40 uniformed men in line, a chemical wagon and the Ladies' Auxiliary, numbering 25, headed the first division. The Cheltenham Hose Company had two mascots and 30 men, with their truck. The Metropolitan Band headed the Edge Hill Company with about 50 men and a new motor truck, also its Ladies' Auxiliary. The Abington Company, headed by Chief Ferguson, Commissioner Laning and "Sheriff" Neely, made an excellent showing with 40 marchers, the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary and the company apparatus. Fort Washington and Flourtown Companies, with fife and drum corps, were next in line and then came the Glenside Company, with 40 firemen and the apparatus.

Marshalls Goebel and Devine headed the second division, and the Jenkintown Independent Company was the first in line, with a parade carriage drawn by 30 firemen, and having in line all their automobile apparatus. Deep interest centered in the newer machine of the company, a 50-horsepower motor, drawing a ladder and hose truck. The piece of apparatus operates on six wheels, weighs about 3500 pounds. This company had with it the West Philadelphia Band. In this division the McKinley Company presented several pleasing features. Its parade banner was carried by an attractive young woman, and 12 little girls, garbed in white, carried the American flag. They had 50 men in line, all their apparatus, a fife and drum corps, and the Women's Auxiliary. Other companies in this division were the LaMott, the Oreland, the Ogontz and the Old York Road, of Ashbourne, all with first class apparatus.

The third division was headed by Marshalls Graham and Albrecht, followed by the Pioneer Company, of Jenkintown, with the Liberty Band, of Philadelphia, also a pioneer corps of axmen, a parade carriage, an especially fine auto chemical and about 50 men. The Rockledge Company made a fine showing, as did the Willow Grove, Weldon and Southampton companies. The latter showed the only old style hand engine in line, marking by contrast the progress made in fire fighting equipment. The Hatboro firemen brougnt up the rear, headed by the Hatboro band and showing a fire fighting force second to none, with its new auto chemical combination truck, steam fire engine, ladder truck and a full turnout of uniformed men.

As the parade passed along there were frequent outbursts of applause from spectators who lined the streets. All vantage points were filled with people, who came to Hatboro from all places in the neighborhood. A most pleasing feature was the march and music of the massed bands at its close.

Following the pageant there were addresses from a decorated stand at York street and Monument avenue, the speakers including Congressman Robert E. Difenderfer, of the Eighth district, from Jenkintown; Assistant District Attorney Joseph Rogers, of Philadelphia, and Lewis Amonson, of Philadelphia.

The visiting firemen were each presented with a pretty souvenir mug filled with hot coffee, also with sandwiches and fruit. The arrangements were admirably made, and the hungry boys were quickly helped to lunch. About 1200 lunches were handed out in a short time.

Two members of the State Constabulary, the borough officers and the platoon of Philadelphia police had an easy time, as the crowd was good natured and orderly.

ROBBERS RAID DOYLESTOWN

Get Little Plunder of Value for Their Several Intrusions.

Burglars last Monday night pried into several residences in the west end of Doylestown. They were probably amateurs. Residences robbed were those of John Yardley, William Bitzer, David D. Nyce and Joseph Nyce, Sr. Attempts were made to enter the homes of Joseph Nyce, Jr., A. B. Stone, Wilson H. Swartley and Albert Smith.

The first floor of D. D. Nyce's house was thoroughly ransacked, and the thieves got only $6 and a watch. At Joseph Nyce's they got away with $1 and a watch. At Yardley's they took time to eat a pie, but disturbed nothing else.

AN ORDINANCE

To change the Purpose of a Part of the Appropriation made in 1911 to the Highway Department.

The Board of Township Commissioners of Cheltenham Township do ordain and enact that Thirty-Eight Hundred Dollars ($3800.) of the moneys appropriated in 1911 for the Highway Department be and the same is hereby transferred to the Miscellaneous and Contingent Fund and that Three Hundred Dollars ($300.) be transferred to the Interest and Sinking Fund Account. The reason for such transfer is that the needs of the Sinking Fund and the Miscellaneous and Contingent Fund were found to exceed the appropriations for those purposes and there is an excess available from the Highway appropriation.

Approved this Third day of October, A. D., 1911.

GEORGE D. WIDENER, President.

FARMERS' FAIR CONTRIBUTORS

List of Those Who Gave Money Towards the Fair at General Morrell's Farm at Torresdale.

Bustleton, October 12, 1911.

The Committee of the Philadelphia Grangers and Farmers fair held at Torresdale, September 23, 1911, were splendidly entertained on Wednesday evening last by their treasurer, Edward Casey and his wife, at which time the transactions of the several committees were endorsed and nearly all the obligations of the fair committee were met.

The remainder could be easily settled if those who have promised subscriptions to the committee will forward the same to the treasurer at once.

We desire to take this opportunity of thanking the public for the general support given the fair, and especially those whose names are printed here below who have contributed so generously to the need of the committee.

NORTHAMPTON FARMERS' CLUB

Some Topics Discussed at the October Meeting.

The October meeting of the Northampton Farmers' Club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cooper Dungan, near Richboro, on the 11th.

The price of milk was discussed by J. Cornell VanArtsdalen, Frank Scott and Dr. Pownall. The former thought milk should be advanced in price as it cost more to produce it than formerly.

A dialogue, "The Frog Hollow Lyceum," was given with a cast of nine young members of the club.

Ira Doan discussed the best variety of wheat and the Hessian fly.

Mrs. Nettie Gill in answer to her question said, nature's first and chief means of education is the home and the family.

J. Krewson Yerkes expressed his opinion as to the manner of eliminating the Canada thistle. Keep cutting it off below the surface of the ground. Edward Jamison said that he plowed his ground in August in the old of the moon and this seemed to be an effectual cure.

Mrs. Lida Luff read the club paper.

The following members were appointed to assist the editor at next meeting: Mrs. Anna Slack, Mrs. Mattie Spencer, Hugh Mason and Joseph Smith.

Adjourned to-meet November 8, at the home of Frank Luff.

DIED LEANING AGAINST TREE

Farm Worker is Stricken with Heart Disease.

Found leaning against a tree on the farm of John Nolan, near Gorgas lane and Stenton avenue, east of Germantown, where he was employed, Geza Soppderszer was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, where the physicians pronounced him dead, on Monday, stating that he had died of heart disease.

The man had been working in the field when two men passing on the road noticed him leaning against a tree as if resting. A moment later his body seemed to become rigid and swung around so that his shoulder rested against the tree trunk, one foot remaining on the ground and the other bending under him.

The men walked to his side and saw that he was either dead or unconscious. The patrol of the Germantown police station was summoned, and the man was taken to the hospital. His employer stated that Soppderszer had apparently been in good health, and had never complained of heart trouble.

WILL REPAIR HISTORIC HOUSE

Livezey Mansion on the Wissahickon Will be Restored by New Tenants.

The historic Livezey mansion, connected with many stories of revolutionary days, on the banks of the Wissahickon at Valley Green, will be restored by the Valley Green Canoe Club and used as a club house.

Although the mansion has been owned by the city of Philadelphia for years, requests for appropriations for its restoration have been refused, and the historic house has been allowed to fall in a sad state of dilapidation. The canoe club recently leased the house, and at the October meeting of the club its members voted to restore it to something of its old-time picturesqueness and beauty.

Several rooms of the mansion already have been renovated. The old stone barn will be used by members of the club for storing canoes in the winter. The spring house near it will be repaired. The famous covered bridge associated with the mansion itself in history has been swept away by floods, but the old dam still remains.

Here in the place where revolutionary heroes met, and where colonial dames and maidens danced the minuet over a century ago, members of the canoe club and their friends are planning a program of social events for the winter. Musicales and entertainments will be held.

At the annual corn roast of the club, held jointly with the October meeting, these officers were elected: T. Norman Rile, president; Irving C. Rodermick, vice president; Raymond Mathien, secretary; Christian Miller, treasurer; Walter S. Fretz, quartermaster; Willard Crooks, coxswain; Edward Brady, Preston Parr and Edward Jordan, board of managers.

FAMILY POISONED AT SUPPER.

Ptomaine poisoning, which followed a supper of beefsteak and potatoes, landed the Corry family, of 5513 N. 3d street, Olney, in the Jewish Hospital last Sunday night.

Around midnight three-year-old Miriam became violently ill. Shortly afterward both her parents exhibited the same symptoms. Dr. Roper, of 5th street and Tabor road, was summoned and diagnosed the illness as poisoning.

The ambulance from the Jewish Hospital was called and the family taken to the institution. They are unable to say what caused the illness, but all are expected to recover. Corry is a paper-hanger and is a cousin of Corry, a special policeman of the Germantown station.

Considerable interest is being taken in a movement on the part of members of the Doylestown Fire Company relative to the purchasing of an auto chemical fire extinguisher.

No man is truly great unless he is able to convince his neighbors that he is.

More women would want to do as they like if they only knew what they liked.

Giving other people the best of it is a good investment. And besides it may not cost you anything.

Relieves Backache Instantly

Sloan's Liniment is a great remedy for backache. It penetrates and relieves the pain instantly—no rubbing necessary—just lay it on lightly.

Here's Proof.

"I had my back hurt in the Boer War and in San Francisco two years ago I was hit by a street car in the same place. I tried all kinds of dope without success. Two weeks ago I saw your liniment in a drug store and got a bottle to try. The first application caused instant relief, and now except for a little stiffness, I am almost well."

SHAM BATTLE.

Saturday afternoon, October 14th, will long be remembered by the members of the Carmel Cadets. Companies of boys, military organizations to the number of twelve, came as the guests of the cadets from Philadelphia, Germantown, Ambler, Sellersville and Doylestown to participate in a sham battle. The companies containing three hundred boys assembled at Mt. Carmel and Keswick avenues, Glenside and with band playing and colors flying they marched to the Carmel Presbyterian church where the ammunition for the battle was distributed. The battlefield was soon reached, on the property of William P. Albrecht, at North Glenside. The battalion under Major H. J. Janton took up its position along a natural entrenchment south of the Jenkintown road and the attacking party under Major Harkness was distributed over the country towards Fitzwatertown.

The battle waged with great fierceness and the outposts of the defending forces were soon driven. The enemy completely surrounded the defenders and after an hours fierce fighting the colors of the defending army were taken. Private John Brown of the Carmel Cadets showed himself worthy of a Carnegie medal in his brave defense of his company's colors. Private Brown while protecting the Cadets colors was burnt by a discharge of powder, but we are glad to report that under the care of Dr. Shearer he is not going to be seriously affected by it.

After the sham battle Major Harkness reviewed the troops at dress parade which was an inspiring sight that the large crowd will not soon forget as the soldier boys in column, after column, like veterans, filed by the reviewing officers.

From indications at present, there will be a surprising vote cast for the Keystone and Democratic candidates. This is a great section for surprising changes in sentiment.

The regular monthly meeting of the Girls' Association of Carmel church will be held this evening (Friday) at the home of Mrs. George Varwig, of Weldon.

Harry C. Wenner has started the erection of another fine residence on the easterly side of Willow Grove pike, above Lynnwood avenue. The house will add to the value and attractiveness of the surrounding property. George E. Blake has the contract to build the house.

The Cheltenham township authorities have looked after the collecting of garbage in a very satisfactory manner and now we wonder when the collecting of ashes will start. As range and heater fires are now in evidence it will necessitate some provision to take care of the ashes.

A Character Builder

A bank account has often proved to be a builder of character, as well as a builder of financial strength. An account with the Bucks County Trust Company added to each week, will be a great help to your welfare.

3 PER CENT. INTEREST PAID ON SPECIAL ACCOUNTS

BUCKS COUNTY TRUST COMPANY DOYLESTOWN, PA.

DEPOSITS OVER $700,000

HOARDED MONEY.

THERE IS HOARDED MONEY IN EVERY COMMUNITY—MONEY NOT IN USE, NOT EVEN SAFELY DEPOSITED IN A RELIABLE BANK. IT IS KID AWAY, CARRIED ON THE PERSON, LIABLE TO LOSS BY FIRE, THEFT, AND MANY OTHER CAUSES.

HOARDED MONEY MAKES NO ONE A CENT.

IT'S THE MONEY IN CIRCULATION THAT STIMULATES BUSINESS. THE MORE MONEY IN CIRCULATION, THE HIGHER THE PRICES AND THE LOWER THE RATES OF INTEREST.

BRING YOUR HOARDED MONEY TO THIS BANK, WHERE IT WILL BE SAFE, AND ALWAYS SUBJECT TO YOUR CHECK. IT WILL HELP YOU, IT WILL HELP US, IT WILL HELP THE COMMUNITY. HOARDED MONEY IS AS USELESS TO BUSINESS AS AN UNEMPLOYED MAN.

THREE PER CENT. INTEREST ALLOWED ON CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT, PAYABLE WITH FULL INTEREST ON DEMAND.

Taking a Liberty.

"Oh, pardon me, Mr. Hedgehog, I merely wanted to borrow a pin for the lady."—Harper's Weekly.

Tossed.

Said this autoist gent: "Is it proper,
Since that officer shouted to 'Stop her!'
To grant his request?
Without meaning to jest,
To decide I'll just toss up a copper."

Safe.

Ephraim—Now, how de dickens did dat fowl know dat I reformed?

Tommy's Favorite.

"Little children should all be fond of animals. Are you fond of them, Tommy?"

"Yes, sir."

"That's a dear little boy! What do you like best?"

"Fried chicken."

Kicked Out.

"It's the unexpected that happens."

Proved Himself.

"Are you getting a good man, Mandy?" asked the lady of her colored maid, who had announced her intention of getting married.

"Sure I'm getting a good man."

"Can he support you? What has he ever done?"

"What has he ever done? Say, dat man has been in jail five times fo' stealing chickens."

A Bear Movement.

Mrs. Growler—I think we'd better move on if we don't want our furs taken on storage.

The Equilibrator.
